MotherG, Itasca

Excellent, problem free technology can ignite a business, making the operation hum. It opens new opportunities, drives business productivity.

MotherG has built a service delivery model that eliminates problems and bring excellent, perfectly aligned technology.

MotherG started in 2005 with the vision that organizations needn't live with erratic technology. Slow. Flaky. Lacking sound security.

Prone to risks such as faulty backups, no power protection, out of warranty core systems. Our delivery model drives out noise and improves worker productivity with aligned technology.

This model has resulted in numerous awards and recognition.

And most important, our clients rave about their experience with technology.

Q: What makes your company a great place to work?

A: We focus on our culture first, placing employee engagement and satisfaction as most important aspect. If we are a service company, our people are the commodity to delivering excellent experiences to the client. We have curated our benefits and perks to align with our mission and core values to attract the perfect people for our delivery model.

Q: How does being a great place to work translate into your company's success?

A: Our clients are the most important recipient of our great organization. When you have an engaged, highly motivated workforce paired with excellent tools and processes, the by-product results in ecstatic clients. They have the highest productivity with problem free operations and excellent strategic business-technology alignment. Sure, their costs are lower. Sure, employee productivity is greater. Changing The Status Quo

We're shocked at the state of technology in the world of small business today. Slow computers, recurring problems, flakiness, email issues, viruses, on and on. What's more shocking – business leaders accept this as the norm! It doesn't have to be.

Flip The Switch. It's on.

We're on a mission to change the status quo. That's why clients love MotherG's Light Switch IT – technology that works just like a light switch. Proactive support, not reactive. You get a team of experts following proven Best Practices, delivering continuous preventive care, and developing and executing a well-designed technology plan.
